

Municipality To Ask For Capital Grant of $35,000

At the regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Mountain View No. 45, held in Didsbury on March 7, the secretary was instructed to forward a request to the Department of Public Works for a capital grant of $35,000 for main market road construction during 1949. A request will also be made for a special grant for construction work and graveling on the Olds East road, the Carstairs-East road and the Water Valley-Cremona road.

Approval was given to the granting of a license by the Department of Trade and Industry to N.B. Farrell and Tom Taylor to operate a service station, garage and lunch counter at the south east corner of the Village of Carstairs.

Approval was also given to the granting of one mother's allowance and one blind pension under the old age pensions act.

Council passed a resolution pursuant to the Public Service Vehicles Act whereby a general ban will be placed on truck, tractor and trailer traffic on the roads in the Municipal district of Mountain View during the spring break-up. A committee comprising Reeve Fox, Councilor Dodd and the secretary-treasurer was appointed to determine the time when the ban will be placed in operation and to put the road ban into effect without further reference to the Council.

Gopher poison will again be provided to farmers on a 50-50 basis in 1949 and Council approved a plan whereby the Municipal District will pay an amount equal to that provided by the farmer on the purchase of gopher poison from local dealers.

A grant of $600 was made to the Red Cross and will be divided equally between the branches at Olds, Didsbury, Carstairs and Crossfield.

Reeve Fox and Councilor Bagnall reported on a meeting held with the Calgary School Division.

Accounts and pay sheets completed the business of the meeting.

H.A. Purdy Speaks To Board of Trade

Mr. H.A. Purdy, prairie representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce for the three prairie provinces, met with the executive of the Didsbury and District Board of Trade last Thursday evening and explained the advantages of affiliating with the Dominion organization. He spoke highly of the work the Board of Trade have done in the past few years and the accomplishments that have been made in many towns and villages, as well as in the larger centres.

Following Mr. Purdy's talk the executive recommended that the Didsbury and District Board of Trade affiliate with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and the matter will be further discussed at the next regular meeting.

At the executive meeting it was decided to commence immediately on a membership drive and a membership committee comprising C.F. Nichol, Harold E. Oke, Geo. Thring and J.C. Folkman was appointed. An advertisement, sponsored by 45 business firms in Didsbury supporting the Board of Trade, was drafted and appears in this issue of "The Pioneer." You are urged to read the advertisement, consider the merits of a Board of Trade, and become an active member and supporter.

Good Attendance At Melvin W.I.

The March meeting of the Melvin W.I. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. L. Chandler, with an attendance of 14 members and seven visitors. Layette articles and other articles for the overseas food parcel were turned in. The response was so generous that it was feared there would be too much for one food parcel. In this case it was decided to keep the extra supply for future use.

Roll call, an Irish joke, proved very amusing and for the bit of fun Mrs. G. Youngs conducted a St. Patrick's contest. A short article on Polio was read by Mrs. E. Shantz.

At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. Fischer. Roll call will be an April Fool's story, and please don't forget the sandwich contest. The topic will be presented by the convener of Home Economics, Mrs. E. Dupont.

Mrs. E. Lepard of Edmonton visited friends in the district over the week end.

Watson Youngs, who has been working in Edmonton during the winter months, is spending a couple of weeks vacation with his parents.

Walther League Holds Fellowship Night on Sunday

A very enjoyable fellowship evening was held under the auspices of Redeemer Walther League on Sunday evening, March 13, in the church basement. Some 125 people were in attendance. A large number of displays were arranged, amongst them a display on Christmas literature, a display of 40 pictures on the building of the church, a display on the Bible and some 20 different translations, and a display on the annual convention of the League in the recent Talent Quest were also displayed, as well as the awards received.

After the group had viewed these displays, Pastor Fox showed about 100 slides on the work of the church, beginning with the ground breaking for the Redeemer Lutheran Church and following it up with the various stages until its dedication last fall. Following these pictures an interesting filmstrip entitled "Fishers of Men" was also shown.

The gathering was served with coffee and doughnuts supplied by the Walther League.

We hope it will heal quickly and not cause her too much pain.

With the return of colder weather, and we mean cold—it was 25 below on Monday morning—everyone is hoping in for a bit more skating and hockey. Mr. J. Bogner and son Teddy are receiving treatment in Olds and we hear both are feeling better.

Mrs. Clarence Reinhardt, Mr. L. Levagood and Mr. Charles Stewart, assisted by the Elktion Ladies, are helping in the big skating rink in Camrose with Mr. Reinhart Sr. and Mr. Levagood's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Levagood.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. David Adams (nee Evelyn Klink) on Tuesday night of last week a large gathering of friends and neighbors came out and charivari-ed them at the bride's home here. A really enjoyable time was had by all.

Miss Marjorie Goetjen accompanied the Herman Dageford family to Olds for the senior hockey game Friday evening last.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Ted Topping and family will be leaving our midst shortly. They will be making their future home near Sundre. Best of luck, folks.

RE: RURAL ELECTRIFICATION FOR DIDSBURY WEST

Your Board of Directors have received an estimate for construction from the Calgary Power Company which exceeds the amount per unit as set at the organization meeting.

It appears that if the project is to be carried out it will be necessary for 100% of the members to give further instruction as to any further action.

The time has arrived when any other resident in the proposed area who wishes electrification must get behind the movement and join with the members NOW.

Failure at this time means Didsbury West will not be served for a further period of years.

Do you want electrification or not? Your action will be final. This is your last chance.

A meeting of members of the West Didsbury Rural Electrification Association will be held at the Melvin Hall on Wednesday, March 23, at 1.30 p.m.

Former Didsbury Man Talks On Old Time Hockey

L.S. Curtis, a former resident of Didsbury and now residing at Dauphin, Man., writes the following in an article appearing in The Calgary Albertan:

I landed in Didsbury in the fall of 1908 prepared to stay for a short time. My main reason was to look over a small business I had heard was for sale, and size up the town and district. Didsbury, like all the other small towns on the Calgary-Edmonton line of the C.P.R., was having a business boom that was likely to last until the new lines of the C.N.R. were built. They were not only supplying the people of their own districts, but also new settlers pouring into the formerly unsettled country 50 and 60 miles to the east.

I put up at the McElrath Bros. Hotel on Main street. Here I got a rather pleasant surprise. When I had registered, I noticed that the short, husky young fellow behind the desk was looking at me and smiling.

He held out his hand and said: "You don't remember me, do you?" Then fishing a nickel out of his pocket, he held it up between his forefinger and thumb, and squinted at it, saying: "What's that for?" Then I remembered him, and started to laugh myself.

On my first day in Calgary and just off the train, this chap had served me with a glass of beer. I had put down a nickel to pay for it, being from the East. He had gazed at the nickel in astonishment, then explained beer was 15 cents a glass, or two for 25 cents.

"Boy," I said, "You've sure got a memory." That was Jack McElrath. I had plenty of spare time on my hands, and in a small town like Didsbury, it didn't take long to get acquainted with the young fellows. Their main interest now that winter was approaching seemed to be hockey, and almost the first thing everyone asked me was: "Did I play hockey?"

It turned out that practically every town from Airdrie to Lacombe had open-air rinks and a hockey team of sorts that people from 30 miles around supported enthusiastically. There was, of course, great rivalry between the towns, the teams, and the players themselves. A league had been formed, embracing those towns, affiliated with the Alberta Hockey Association, and the games, to say the least, were exciting.

I loved to play hockey but I had no exaggerated opinion of my ability as a player. Before coming west some six years before I had played with some good teams in the O.H.A. but I hadn't touched a stick, or had on a pair of skates since I came west. My skates and hockey stuff was still at my home in the East, and there I was, 25 years old, an old man for hockey in those days. So I didn't really know myself whether I could qualify as a player or not.

One of the first lads I ran into in Didsbury, and liked on sight, was Earl (Red) Sexsmith. He was then about 18 and a natural born athlete. He excelled in any game he played. One of those happy-go-lucky, big-hearted and generous boys, with a half-trigger temper to go with his red hair. A little under six feet, slim built but all hard muscles, he was quick as a cat on his feet and hard to handle in a fight. Shortly before I took over the store in Didsbury, when a slough just outside the town had frozen over, Red got me a pair of skates and a stick and gave me a try-out.

I found that I could stick-handle, but the six years layoff had been too long. I no longer had the speed. However, Red seemed satisfied and persuaded me to send east for my stuff. Red's ability simply amazed me. I had never before seen a hockey player so graceful, yet so strong and solid on a pair of skates.

That first year Jack Berscht was manager, and they made me playing coach. I was plainly given to understand the club had no money to bring in outside players, and I would have to make out with home talent. Nine players only were allowed for a team in those days. Substitutes were used only when one of the regular seven got too badly hurt to continue.

After a few practices I did not think we would win many games, but if we did lose them it would be for want of trying. Little Jack Laing, the barber; Tommy Stark, the American professional baseball catcher who spent his winters in Didsbury with his parents, who saw the fun in everything and was full of spirit; Angus Sinclair, the blacksmith, who would tackle anything on two legs, or four; Charley Cooper, another sound fellow. None of them could skate very well, or handle a hockey stick to any extent, but they all had the right spirit, and they could check. Meyers, the goal tender, was only fair. If we were to win games, it was not only up to Red and I to score the goals, but to keep out of the penalty box too.

We did fairly well that first winter, all things considered. We got good support at our home games, but when playing away from home I found we were not only playing against the other team but the officials as well. A home town referee who actually knew anything about hockey was practically unknown while the goal umpires never held up their hands for a goal unless the puck was stuck in the net. This reminds me of a game we played that year in Red Deer, that was not only the queerest game, but the funniest I ever had anything to do with.

When we got on the ice there we found the goals were homemade wooden frames over which chicken wire had been stretched tight; and the bottoms of the nets, instead of being set in flush with the ice, were fully two inches above it. In the practice session before the game, we found the puck was either going right through the goal to the back of the boards, or if it hit the net it didn't stay there but bounced right out again.

I have no idea how many goals were really scored on both sides that day. None were allowed unless the puck was inside the net, and they were mighty few. By half-time tempers on both sides were running high and the game was getting rough. The referee was entirely impartial, he just didn't see anything. Angus Sinclair, our cover-point, was ordinarily a good-natured chap and rarely lost his temper, but that day they were ganging up on him two and three at a time and he was getting slightly peeved. It wasn't until one of the Red Deer players put his head down and butted Angus in the stomach that Angus really got mad. Dropping his stick he started grabbing the nearest players and tossing them over his shoulder, and when the referee, egged on by the crowd, attempted to rule Angus off, Angus just grabbed him and sent him sailing after the others. That started it. In no time a free fight was on between the players while the crowd poured on the ice and joined in. Outnumbered and somewhat the worse for wear, the Didsbury team retreated to the dressing room and I never did know who really won that game.

The next year Didsbury was lucky. Changes in the bank and C.P.R. staffs brought them Norman Weirke from the Berlin O.H.A. Champions; George Sexsmith, a brother of Red's; Walkley, a first class goalie; Topf, the new school Principal, and Charlie Smith whose father opened up a new hardware store.

At the end of the season's schedule the A.H.A. ordered a sudden-death game to be played at Lacombe. Didsbury chartered a special train and took the team, some 500 supporters and the town band to Lacombe. It was a hum-dinger of a game, but sad to relate, though Didsbury scored the first goal in 10 seconds from the check-off, they finally lost to Lacombe in 20 minutes of overtime.

British Airlines Arrange Around the World Flights

It was announced on March 1 that three United Kingdom airlines in co-operation with 14 international airlines have prepared a standard tariff for round the world flights. This is the first time in the history of aviation that such a plan has been introduced. It covers more than 1,000 alternative routes reaching 165 cities in 40 different countries. This air network spans the five continents. It provides one year's trip around the world for $1,681. This charge includes hotel accommodation at overnight stops. No extra fare is required if the traveller wishes to break the journey at any point. The only condition is that the entire journey shall be completed within one year.

New Seed ... Is The Best

"New seed is the Best" is a piece of advice given around 300 B.C. by Theophrastus, a noted agricultural authority in ancient Greece. Theophrastus had noted that the seed selectors of old, who correspond to modern plant breeders, were continually selecting new strains of seed which greatly improved the yield and quality of field crops.

The newest and best seed obtainable today is Registered seed. The use by any farmer of a few bushels of Registered seed will bring him higher grades, higher yields, and so increase income.

SUGGESTED BY
THE BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

ITALIAN STOCKBREEDING

During the first half of 1948 breeding cattle imports into Italy were valued at $12 million. The Netherlands was the largest supplier with 63 per cent of the total imports, followed by Denmark with 11 per cent and Switzerland with 11 per cent. Switzerland's share of the total Italian imports amounted to 90 per cent in 1946 and 40 per cent in 1947, but because of high prices, the Swiss are gradually losing the Italian market.

Bitumont Tar Sands Tests Exceed Hopes

A report on the Alberta government's plant at Bitumont said that the quantity of oil produced during the test runs was "better than had been anticipated." The report was tabled in the legislature recently.

"Oil was produced at a rate exceeding designed capacity," the report said. "It should be emphasized that the results were obtained with inexperienced operators."

The results have not been encouraging enough to "convince private industry that the investment would be attractive enough to warrant starting plant construction without some form of government assistance."

The plant is reported to have produced 5,642 gallons of crude oil in 56 hours. There is an estimated 250 million barrels of oil sands around Bitumont.

The report said there is ample oil to persuade industry to enter the field as soon as production methods have been perfected.

BREAD NOT FATTENING

Bread is not an important source of fat in the national diet, according to one of America's leading nutritionalists, Dr. J. Culver of the Massachusetts General Hospital. This statement may help destroy the fiction of the fattening attributes of flour and bread products to which has been attributed much of the declining consumption of flour and bakery products.

Type Gremlins

We are sorry that we sent a local resident to Alaska last week, but this office is plagued with a variety of type gremlins which sneak up on the staff and juggle arms, getting into print Alaska instead of Alaska.

These gremlins aren't satisfied with just contributing original errors but also are on hand to see that the errors get into the corrected slugs so that the lady that went to Alaska should be glad she didn't end up in Timbuctoo. Gremlins delight in creating an original error like this: "Mr. Smith is a detective in the police force." If the proof reader catches the mistake and shoots the story back for correction the line may end up again: "Mr. Smith is a detective in the police force." You can't win with type Gremlins.

Have Equipment Ready To Go In The Spring

Spring is just around the corner and now is the time to check farm machinery and equipment and obtain the necessary replacements. There is probably no more forlorn figure than the farmer who has just gone to the field to seed hay or harvest, only to find that his machine has broken down. Next in line for disappointments, says W.T. Burns, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Substation at Smithers, B.C., is the farmer who starts his repairs on the day he should have started his field work. In checking over machines all dirt, grease and oils should be thoroughly washed away, using kerosene or gasoline where necessary. All bearings and other moving parts should be carefully examined and those showing signs of excessive wear should be renewed. All bolts and set screws used in adjustments should be checked to be sure they are operative. Machines should also be checked for broken castings. These are often indicated by the presence of wire. While it may be true that the machines were running fine the last time they were used, it is equally true that time spent checking them over during the off-season will eventually save time during the busy summer season.

Objections are frequently raised that during the winter it is too cold to work on machines. However, it is surprising how much can be done in a modest sized machine shop if fitted with a small stove, particularly if the coldest days are avoided.

Danish Food Exports

During 1948 Danish butter and egg exports were above the previous year's but cheese exports showed a decrease. The total figure for 1948 butter exports was 105 thousand tons, about 20 thousand tons more than in 1947.

The export of eggs increased from twenty thousand tons in 1947 to 35.5 thousand tons in 1948. Cheese exports showed a reduction from 13.3 thousand tons in 1947 to 12.6 thousand tons in 1948.

DRY ICE HOPES DAMPENED; WILL NOT PRODUCE ENOUGH RAIN

For the past nine months experiments conducted by the United States Air Force have held out the hope that rain could be artificially caused by sprinkling dry ice on clouds. If successful, these experiments could have proven a great boon, especially to farmers whose greatest fear is drought.

Unfortunately, the high hopes held for this rain producing method have not been justified. After nine months of sprinkling dry ice on clouds the Air Force issued a statement to the effect that "The experiments proved the seeding of clouds has not caused rain in amounts sufficient to be of economic significance."

Girl, 16, Inherits Aged Pen Pal's Ranch

A Manitoba cattle ranch, cash and securities worth $30,000 are now the property of a surprised 16-year-old candy clerk through the will of a pen pal—a 75-year-old Winnipeg man she has never seen.

Red-headed Doreen Upsall was found by reporters selling chocolates in a theatre lobby in suburban Long Branch in Toronto. She said she was still confused by the request from the man, whom she had known for less than two years as a pen pal.

She said it was "true, all right," but she refused to divulge the name of the man, a cattle rancher.

She first learned of the inheritance from a Toronto lawyer. "I couldn't believe it at first," the young clerk said. "My mother had to telephone the lawyer's office. It was true, all right."

Miss Upsall's step-father, Gilbert Crowder, met the man on a trip to Winnipeg two years ago, she said. Subsequently letters from him said he was lonely on his ranch and appreciated mail. Mr. Crowder suggested that Doreen start writing him, but they never exchanged pictures.

"I wrote once a week," she said. "He always answered right away. He seemed to be an awfully nice man. Once he even asked me to marry him. I didn't mention it in my next letter."

She said she had made no plans yet regarding the ranch and its cattle.

In The Legislature

(By H. G. Hammell, M.L.A.)

At a night sitting on Friday, Premier E.C. Manning brought in the largest budget in Alberta's history. It anticipates receipts of $61,232,000 during the coming fiscal year and expenditures in excess of that by $2,127,000.

After April 1, 1949, the province will carry all the costs of Alberta Blind pensions which were carried before by the municipalities. They have previously paid 10% of the pension to which the Dominion Government contributed. Pensions to these same people will be increased to $10.00 giving Alberta the highest pension in Canada. The province now will pay $10 in excess of the maximum Dominion pension.

No new taxes are to be levied by the Government during the year.

Next week I will have further details on the budget highlights.

Hon. D.A. Ure outlined to the Legislature the Master Farm Family program which is being instituted in Alberta this year. It will be a province-wide contest open to any farmer of ten years farming experience who is nominated by three neighbors. Contestants must be Canadian citizens. All phases of farming operations including land use, diversification of activities, tree planting, community service, household facilities of the whole family will be scored. Final winners will be named in each of five soil zones of the Province, and appropriate awards will be made. It is felt that this program will focus attention on the advantages of rural life and on farming as a way of life as well as a business. It will recognize good farming, clear thinking and right living. Further details can be secured from any District Agriculturist or Home Economist.

Hon. A. J. Hooke indicated in his debate that 1948 was a record tourist year from the standpoint of cars and visitors coming to Alberta. There were 107 tourist camps operating outside the National Parks. The Minister indicated that a wide advertising program covering all North America had brought excellent results. A tourist welcome Bureau will be established this year at

Advertising Pays Dividends

Importance of retailers advertising in our weekly newspapers was emphasized by Nelson McFarland of Long Branch, Ont., at recent Ontario Retail Hardware Association convention in Toronto.

"We are definitely sold on advertising in our store and have run the gamut of advertising, experience and experimentation," told the hard-hearted hardware men, according to a report in Hardware and Metal. "It's our considered opinion that the best medium for reaching large masses over an extended area is the local weekly newspaper. We have the misfortune of being located at the end of the business section and only by consistent and dynamic advertising have we maintained a high sales volume."

Many of us are small retailers operating in small local areas where they have these small weekly newspapers. These papers are close to the community, they are friendly and intimate, and subscribers read them from cover to cover. Your ad cannot help but make a terrific impression."

Would-be inventors of perpetual motion machines always find their chief obstacle to be loss of power by friction.

McLeod to assist visitors coming here. Tourists spent $17,000,000 in Alberta last year.

Mr. Hooke told the House that thirty-two new industries were established in Alberta last year employing 1200 new employees. This industrial growth represented an investment of $30,000,000.

The Alberta Government was responsible for bringing in about 1700 families last year from Great Britain, all of whom had satisfied the Government that they were desirable citizens and financially able to establish themselves so as to be self-supporting.

Should Alberta Export Natural Gas?

2nd Radio Talk by Mr. James Walker

For Northwest Natural Gas Company

In my discussion a week ago, I stated that gas should be exported from Alberta. I said that if the necessary permissions were granted the Northwest Natural Gas Company plans to build a pipeline to export natural gas from this Province to Vancouver, via Spokane and Seattle. Let me again assure the people of Alberta that the Company fully agrees with the principle that the present and future requirements of the Province of Alberta must be provided for and take priority over export. It is only a portion of the surplus available for export that the Company wishes to purchase. It was shown that the present reserves of 43 trillion cubic feet are more than sufficient to supply the present and future demands of the province and leaving an ample margin for export. I stated that evidence had been presented to the Gas Commission to indicate that an export market for gas would stimulate exploration and development with the result that proven reserves of natural gas would grow faster than consumption. In this connection it was pointed out that in the last 5 years, 28 trillion cubic feet of gas had been added to the already large reserves in Alberta. These discoveries were made mainly in the search for oil. An export market would give the necessary impetus to look for gas and would undoubtedly result in many new discoveries and greater additions to the reserves. I quoted figures to show that low cost fuel is not the factor in locating industry that people generally believe, and that lack of raw materials, low density of population and high transportation costs are a handicap to Alberta becoming highly industrialized. On the other hand I made the assertion that industries incidental to the gas industry would be attracted, such as chemical plants using propane and butane. The propane could be used as bottled gas in the rural districts. These constituents would be extracted from the gas to be carried through the pipeline and would be available to local industry.

BEST ROUTE CHOSEN

I should now like to deal more fully with the project of the Northwest Natural Gas Company and the economic benefits which will accrue to the people of Alberta when the pipeline is built. The Company was organized by a group who had considerable experience in the natural gas industry in the past 20 years. The Company first carefully examined two alternative routes across British Columbia, but engineering studies definitely established that a pipeline direct to Vancouver, across British Columbia, could only be built at a prohibitive cost, with the probability that it could not be maintained in repair in the winter months. Accordingly a route was chosen through the Crownsnest Pass to Kamloops, then to Spokane, Seattle and Vancouver. Approximately 1000 miles, including gathering lines, will be laid in Canada and about 700 miles in the United States.

MONEY FOR ALBERTA

The estimated cost of constructing the pipeline is 16 million dollars of which 10 million dollars will be the cost of the part laid in Canada. During construction, the sum of approximately 16 million dollars will be spent in Alberta for labor. A Canadian company will be formed to construct, own and operate that part of the system lying in Canada. It is estimated that 1 million dollars will be paid yearly in Alberta for wages and salaries. In addition approximately 250,000 dollars will be paid yearly in wages by the companies who supply the gas. The Company will pay a minimum of 125 cents per dollar of the first 25 year period for natural gas now in the ground. This is roughly 7 million dollars per annum. This will be new money. It will come from the sales outside of the Province, and be paid to the producers of gas. Furthermore, a substantial portion of gas will be paid for in United States dollars which will improve Canada's foreign exchange position. The project will be one of Alberta's largest industries. It will exceed any other company in capital investment and will rank among the first 12 in payrolls and the first 10 in cost of materials.

Using an average royalty figure of 15 per cent it is estimated that the total royalty payments over a 25 year period will be approximately 26 million dollars. Of this amount it is estimated that a minimum of 37 per cent, or roughly 10 million dollars, will go to the Province, and the balance to private owners in the Province. In addition, payments for rights of way for the pipeline will probably amount to 30,000 dollars. There will also be a substantial amount in taxes to accrue to the Dominion as well as the Provincial Government.

The financial returns from the project will be of tremendous importance in the economy of Alberta. The project will bring substantial sums of new money into the province, it will provide regular employment and a steady flow of money to the government, and others, for royalties, taxes, salaries, wages. It will also give returns on investments and provide other benefits. It will be a steady stabilizing force in the economy of Alberta.

ENCOURAGE DISCOVERY

It might also be stated that the Company has contracts with three of the major oil companies to supply gas when the pipeline is constructed. One of these companies has shut down on its operations because there is no market for its gas. When the pipeline is built it has agreed to drill an additional 2 wells which will cost approximately 600,000 dollars. Another company will drill an additional 12 wells when the pipeline is built and the third has undertaken to drill as many wells as may be necessary to fulfill its contract deliveries. Other contracts may be entered into which will mean additional drilling for gas. This will result in additional expenditures in the province, largely on labor, which were not previously contemplated. This confirms that a market for gas will encourage drilling new wells and will have the effect of adding to the present reserves.

A pipeline to the North Pacific Coast will have little effect, if any, on Alberta's coal industry. On the other hand experiments are now being conducted to produce a high B.T.U. gas from coal at low cost. It is believed that the process will be found in the near future which will enable coal gas to compete with natural gas and in this event the coal industry would benefit as the pipeline could then be used to transport coal gas to the coast.

ALBERTA TOWNS SERVED

It is the intention of the Northwest Natural Gas Company to cooperate as closely as possible with present distributing systems in the Province in order to serve the best interests of the people of Alberta. The companies distributing gas in Alberta will have the opportunity to get supplies from the Northwest Natural Gas Company which would give them new and enlarged reserves without having to make substantial capital expenditures to build pipeline lines to distant fields. Some of the gathering lines in the Province would be used to supply local distributing systems in areas which are not now being served with gas.

Several reasons can be advanced for exporting gas to the United States. It has already been pointed out that the project will improve Canada's dollar position with the United States. Canada has imported for years, and must continue to import from the United States, a large variety of products which we cannot produce ourselves and which are of vital importance in our economy. We must save the money to buy them. At the present time imports from the United States include substantial purchases of coal and related fuels as well as petroleum and petroleum products. Until a year ago Canada imported at least 90 per cent of its petroleum products from the United States and in spite of Alberta's production, still finds it necessary to import about 80 per cent of its current requirements. It would, therefore, be a reciprocal gesture to sell United States a small portion of our natural gas, and by doing so improve our trading position.

The cities of Vancouver and Seattle and others in the Pacific Coast area depend largely on oil for their fuel supplies. Most of the gas distributed in that area is made from oil which is transported by tankers. In the event of a war, the possibility of which should not be minimized, it would be difficult, if not impossible to service cities in that area with oil. Industry in general would suffer but still more important the production of war materials would be jeopardized. The supply of natural gas would remove this difficulty. It would be a real defence measure. It was recently reported that the North Atlantic Security Pact might cost Canada 20 million dollars. The pipeline to the Coast would be no expense to Canada. It would be a source of revenue as well as a measure of defence.

SUMS UP

Summing up what I have said in my two broadcasts, it will be in the best interests of Alberta to export gas for the following reasons:

1. The reserves of natural gas are more than sufficient to supply the present and foreseeable requirements of the Province.
2. There is ample surplus for export.
3. A new major industry will be brought to the Province, which will attract other industries.
4. Large sums of money will be brought into the Province and spent on wages, etc.
5. The revenues of the Province will be increased by royalties and by taxation.
6. Natural gas will be made available to many localities within the Province which are not now being served with gas.
7. The development of other resources of the Province will be aided.
8. Alberta can contribute in a larger way to reciprocal trade relations with the United States and in so doing improve Canada's position in American dollars.
9. The pipeline would be a defence measure and a necessity in time of war.

From the information I have given in the course of my radio talks I trust the people of Alberta will have a clear understanding of the project of the Northwest Natural Gas Company. As I said in my previous broadcast it is a subject of major importance. It is only by knowing the facts that the question can be solved satisfactorily.
